MT BIRD. OR PARTY PORRESTED fire last year's moon had left the sky.

A birdling sought my Indian nest, and folded, oh! so lovingly. Her they wings upon my breast. From morn till evening's purple tinge In winsome helplessness she lies; Two rose leaves, with a sliken fringe, Shut softly on her starry eyes.

There's not in Ind a lovelier bird; Broad earth owns not a happier nest: O God ! Thou hast a fountain stirred, Whose waters never more shall rest.

This beautiful mysterious thing, This seeming visitant from heaven. This bird with the immortal wing, To me-to me, thy hand has given. The pulse first caught its tiny stroke,

The blood its crimson hue from mine; This life, which I have dared invoke, Henceforth is parallel with thine. A silent awe is in my room-I tremble with delicious fear;

The future, with its light and gloom

Time and Eternity are here Doubts-hopes, in eager tumuit rise Hear, O my God, one earnest prayer Room for my bird in Paradise, And give her angel plumage there. MATLMAIN, January, 1848.

THE ROOT OF ALL EVIL Gold! gold! gold! gold! Bright and yellow, hard and cold, Molten, graven, hammer'd, and roll'd; Heavy to get, and fight to hold; Hoarded, barter'd, bought and sold; Stolen, borrow'd, squander'd, doled, Spurned by young, but hugged by the old, To the very verge of the church-yard mould; Price of many a crime untold, Gold! gold! gold! gold!

Good or bad a thousand fold. How widely its agencies vary ; To save, to ruin, to curse, to bless d even its minted coin expressed with the image of good Queen Bes of bloody Mary.

He limped a little, but wouldn't give in an inch. When the second slipped, the pace became more even. Then the third went, and in half a minute more his last hoof pulled off in a quagmire. But when he got on his stumps—snails and terra-pins! how he tore along! Looking back, (for I felt just as easy as a hungry dog in a potato patch,) there lay one of the prettiest strings of buffalo, for about five miles, that you ever did see. Gentlemen, we had run every one of 'em to death, with the exception of one old bull, who seemed determined to with, or perish in the attempt. He couldn't quite come it, though-we beat him just a length. Dick fell at last, and so did the venerable elipse of the prairies, just behind him, most beautifully used up and ground off

"The bull's legs were not run off, too!" cried an excited spectator, interrupting Joe. "You'd thought they were, " you'd seen 'em!" replied Joe, coolly.

"Did he live?" queried another listener. "He didn't do any thing subsequent-and Window at ail! He had had another race, I suppose, and run 'em off smack up to his body! "I guess that put an end to his racing!

"Well, it didn't," responded Joe. "How did he get along, then?"

said the last speaker in the crowd.

"He rolled, gentlemen, just as nat'ral as a saw log on an inclined plane"-whereupon Joe descended from his hogshead, mounted Dick, and rode off, amid a shout that would Ovellos, Match Planes hollows and rounds, Sash have done honor to the lungs of Stentor.
